WOODWORKERS STRIKE TOMORROW

Hungry Cougar Attacks Man

SQUAMISH, B.C. (CP) — A hungry cougar attacked a bulldozer operator eight miles north of here Wednesday, tearing his trousers and clawing his leg.

Chris Wyssen, 26, of Squamish, said he was making a minor repair to his machine and looked up to see five cougars sitting on a log pile behind him.

One of them was only three feet from Wyssen when he jumped up and screamed. The cougar leaped at him, clawing his leg before he could get the bulldozer moving.

Wyssen notified authorities by telephone. A hunting party set out immediately and shot two of the cougars. The other three are being tracked.

Russians Were Savages

This is the third episode in the Colonist's exclusive story of Ernest Graf, a survivor of more than 10 years of Russian imprisonment and torture. He lives now in Port Alberni with his parents. He has told his story, he says, only to show the world the nature of the Russian character and of the subjugation of the individual by the state under Communism. In Russia, he says you work or starve, and no man is free.

Born in Germany, he came to Canada with his parents as an infant, returned to his grandparents in Dessau in 1939 at the age of 16. Hitler's war machine carried him into battle.

His story continues:

By JOHN SHAW

After the fighting around Rostov and along the Don, Ernest Graf had formed a poor opinion of the Russian soldier. He had been imbued with the spirit of German invincibility. But, as a Canadian-raised farm boy, whose parents were still on their Saskatchewan farm, he had a more objective outlook than his companions in arms.

They went through terrible fighting on the Volga.

"The Russians," he remembers, "gave us hell."

The bombardments were monstrous, and the Russians attacked in vast numbers. Only the German armor made it possible for the troops to hold their lines.

The young soldier began to realize that every battle was not a victory. As an ambulance driver he realized, too, something of the disastrous casualties the German armies were suffering.

"In 1943 they chased us out of Charkow. We had to counterattack and take the town again.

"We found the Russians had slaughtered all prisoners. The soldiers had been lined up and shot down with tommy-guns, rank after rank."

And now came the time of retreat — bitter, ferocious hand-to-hand warfare, where the odds favored the Russians. The Russian armor was more effective, too, with new weapons pouring in from the Western allies.

The fighting was approaching the Rumanian frontier when Ernest Graf was stricken with pneumonia. He had been ill for days, bone weary and without rations, for he was on the move constantly.

B.C. Blast

Man Killed By Oil Rig Explosion

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—An American oil engineer was burned fatally and two co-workers were severely injured Wednesday in a wellhead gas explosion at an isolated drilling site near Mile 95 on the Alaska Highway.

W. E. Walton, 31, of Madill, Okla., died on the plane that was taking him and the two others to hospital at Edmonton, a 350-mile flight south. Earl Miller, 32, and Sandy Reise, 30, both of Fort St. John, suffered third-degree burns.

The blast occurred early Wednesday when wet gas from the 6,200-foot level seeped up to the wellhead and ignited. The $1,000,000 drilling rig and other equipment was destroyed and the fire still was burning uncontrolled late Wednesday night.

Welcome Home Ends Ordeal

Amnesia victim Arthur Yurkowski gets a big hug of welcome from his wife and 19-month-old son, Roger, after his return to his home at 2624 Quadra from a Calgary hospital. The Victoria salesman was found eight days after he disappeared here. Said Mrs. Yurkowski: "Our little boy couldn't stay out of his arms for a whole day." Russia Included, Says U.S.

'Our Bombs Are Clean —Come See for Yourself'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday that if the United States ever tests another big nuclear bomb he will invite "any country in the world" to be on hand and see for itself that radioactive fallout has been reduced toward the vanishing point.

Eisenhower also told a press conference his scientific advisers favor telling the Russians or anyone else exactly how to make a "clean" bomb once the U.S. proves it knows how.

LONDON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen of the United States said Wednesday that any inspection system set up to enforce an end to the H-bomb race must be painstaking and completely foolproof.

The United States is confident, Stassen told the United Nations disarmament subcommittee, that if all nations co-operate the system can be so good that it will prohibit all cheating of any consequence.

He added that before the U.S. will agree even to suspend hydrogen bomb tests there must be agreement on the design, installation, operation and maintenance of such a system.

Stassen spoke for more than an hour in elaborating Tuesday's offer to halt bomb tests for 10 months provided there is agreement between Russia and the West to stop assigning materials for H-bomb construction in 1959.

There would be inspectors at every plant producing fissionable materials. They would have full access to data on what raw materials enter each plant, what finished products emerge from each plant and a detailed record of all waste materials and the purposes to which such materials are assigned.

Queen's Hair Rid of 'Devil'

OTTAWA (CP)—The "devil" has been taken out of the Queen's hair on the Canadian $1 bill.

The bill, bearing a photograph of Queen Elizabeth approved by her, was put into circulation by the Bank of Canada in 1954.

Some time later, some eagle-eyed persons noticed that some of the royal curls gave the appearance of a sharp-nosed face in the Queen's hair.

The same printing quirk has appeared on bills of higher denomination.

New $1 bills now being issued carry the same photograph. But the Queen's hair has been retouched to remove the "devil."

Tie-Up of Industry Involves 34,000

Thirty-four thousand woodworkers in the coastal forests of British Columbia go on strike at 10 a.m. tomorrow. The $500,000,000-a-year lumber industry provides more than half the province's annual income.

Other strikes and threatened strikes may leave another 41,000 workers idle in B.C. this summer in what could be the worst year in the province's labor history.

British Columbia's second biggest industry—salmon fishing—has been crippled by a strike for more than a week.

Also threatening is a strike of 17,000 civil servants, which, if it develops, will be the first strike of civil servants in Canada at a major level of government.

Joe Morris, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, issued the strike announcement last night after five days of last-ditch negotiations to head off a stoppage in the forests.

NO AGREEMENT

The strike, set for 10 a.m. Friday, was called, Mr. Morris said, because it was "not possible to reach an agreement suitable to the union" in negotiations with Forest Industrial Relations Limited, bargaining agent for 157 lumber operators.

In a separate statement, Forest Industrial Relations said "as a final means of settling the dispute" it offered a general wage increase of 5 per cent, effective June 15.

This was rejected by the IWA, which has been seeking a 20-per-cent boost from the present basic rate of $1.59 an hour.

One small company employing 13 men in North Vancouver decided Wednesday to pay what the union wants. It is not covered by Forest Industrial Relations.

Owner J. G. Munro said his operation couldn't last through a strike.

The operators and the IWA broke off wage talks last month and the latest series of closed-door discussions followed an appeal by Premier Bennett for the two sides to try to reach an agreement.

REPORT TO PREMIER

Both FIR and the IWA agreed to report back to Premier Bennett at 9.30 this morning.

Logging, shingle, plywood and sawmill operations on the mainland coast and Vancouver Island will be closed by the strike.

The dispute does not involve workers in the pulp and paper industry directly, but there will be interruption of pulpwood supplies.

The increases demanded by the IWA are to a basic hourly rate of $2.22 for sawmill workers and $1.90 for others. It is estimated it would cost the industry $20,000,000 a year.

The idled lumber workers would join 5,500 members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) and the Native Brotherhood of B.C. and 60 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers employed by the city of Vancouver.

Threatening strikes are 11,000 provincial civil servants, 3,000 operating engineers, employed mainly in construction, and 4,000 carpenters. If these men strike, it would affect construction work, shut liquor stores and disrupt government business. Another 19,000 persons in canneries are indirectly affected by the salmon fishing stoppage.

$888,000 a Week

Nearly 12,000 On Island To Be Idled

Close to 12,000 Vancouver Island loggers, plywood plant workers and sawmill workers will be idled by the IWA strike.

In the Victoria area, there are 1,500 woodworkers earning $110,000 a week—if the average pay scale is $1.85 an hour as union officials contend. Forest Industrial Relations says the average pay is $2 an hour.

Present minimum wage is $1.59 an hour. The union wants a 20-per-cent wage boost and fringe benefits.

FIRMS AFFECTED

Lumber operations in the Victoria area to be shut down tight by pickets include B.C. Forest Products, Sooke Lake Lumber, Moore-Whittington, CPS Lumber & Timber, Butler Bros., Goodridge Sawmills at Sooke, McCarter-Shingle, Crowe-Gonnason, P & W Sawmill, and Harbor Sawmill. Elder Timber Co. employees voted against the strike.

Though the loss in wages will undoubtedly hit Victoria hard, up-Island centres such as Duncan, Nanaimo and Port Alberni are expected to suffer even more.

EVEN LARGER

In these cities, giant lumber operations support an even larger proportion of the population.

Loss of wages would be more than $888,000 a week on the entire Island.

The union has a strike fund of well over $1,000,000 from which to pay strike relief of $7 a week for single persons, $12 for a married man, and $2 extra for each child.

ORGANIZING DONE

Various union committees have already been set up by Local 1-118 here, as elsewhere in the province, to handle pickets, finances, publicity, transportation and welfare.

Lumber sales have been booming here during the last month because of the threat of a strike. As a result, no large Victoria building projects are expected to be held up by a lumber shortage, unless the strike extends into the fall.

Red Purge Omen for Peace

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev may finally have succeeded in burying Stalin. If he has, it is a good omen for peace in our time.

The removal of Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich, V. M. Molotov and others from the ruling party praesidium, and the makeup of the new membership, indicate a mighty Khrushchev victory. They suggest the party itself has had its bellyful of Stalinism.

Also demoted were Dimitri Shepilov, Maxim Saburov and M. G. Pervukhin.

Those formerly humiliated by the Stalinists now will run the show. Those responsible for such dark deeds as assisting Stalin in his latter-day Oriental plotting have been pushed out. The shake-up has these overtones:

First, it appears to be a showdown between the Stalinists and the anti-Stalinists in the Kremlin.

Second, it suggests there has been a bitter quarrel over Khrushchev's program to reorganize the Soviet economy. Khrushchev seems to have won.

Third, the elevation of Marshal Georgi Zhukov to full membership in the praesidium suggests confirmation of the steadily increasing—and steadying—influence of the Soviet army in Kremlin politics.

Along with him, now, there will be others in the praesidium representing a more modern Soviet Union and a more moderate outlook. All this is a conservative influence which turns away from rash risks.

The indications in the Soviet press are that this purge is likely to go deep. Having rooted out the Stalinists at the top, Khrushchev and his followers must also root them out in the party ranks.

Then Khrushchev will be in an entrenched position to go ahead with his vast plan for reorganizing the Soviet economy, decentralizing industry and doing a number of rational things that could not be done under Stalin nor with the resistance of Stalinists.

This can mean peace for some time to come, because in such an enormous program the Soviet Union must have peace.

By that time the face of Soviet society will have changed tremendously. The USSR will be moving toward a stable social structure in which there will be a large stake in long-term peace.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

DOODLING with a piece of cord from around a bundle of newspapers, I found that I had fashioned it into a hangman's knot.

It was a slovenly-looking hangman's knot, but it ran freely and pulled tight on a finger. And I wasn't worrying too much about its quality, because I didn't plan to use it.

Just idly, though, I set out to make a better one. It wasn't hard. Bend a loop and another; wind the rope around, put it through the second loop and pull. You won't get this without a diagram, which is lucky.

A satirical magazine once purported to show this knot in a cartoon strip which might well be described as "gallows humor," but the illustration was deliberately drawn wrongly in case some feeble-witted reader might get ideas from it.

Personally, I believe the magazine's editor was worried for nothing. Anyone who was bright enough to follow the diagram would also have the sense to know that hanging was a clumsy and savage method of extinguishing life.

In much the same way that the neurotic Captain Queeg in The Caine Mutiny juggled three ball bearings between his fingers, I found myself twisting a miniature hangman's knot from newspaper cord, and absently twisting it around my thumb.

Perhaps I Felt Guilty

I don't know what set me doodling in this macabre way, but I suspect that my fingers were subconsciously inspired by the current talk of the death penalty and of persons who cheated the hangman with a last-minute reprieve.

And it may have been a sign that I felt guilty, along with several millions of fellow-humans, of a share in the disgrace of capital punishment.

Humans are not wholly responsible for their actions. Whether we like it or not, a man's behavior is caused in greater or lesser degree, by factors outside his control. This is a fact which numerous people refuse to accept, because it makes them feel uncomfortable.

They find it easier on the nerves to believe in complete free will. One feels safe in a neatly-arranged world in which people are either mad or sane, and if they are sane they must be punished for their crimes, and if they are mad they must go to an asylum.

The real world is more complicated than that. Besides black and white, there are many shades of gray. The law recognizes only black and white. Perhaps this fiction is needed, for the public safety. We may not be responsible for all our actions, but it may be wise to assume that we are. Lacking this safeguard, all criminals might plead helplessness.

Clean but Cowardly

Numerous wrongdoers are mental cripples, or ordinary men twisted to the point of violence by unusual stress. The law still punishes them because punishment is easier to hand out than treatment, and in the hope that others who may be wavering on the edge of crime may see the example, and refrain.

Experts and lay men might pass many hours debating what sort of a balance between punishment and understanding should be maintained in the courts.

But capital punishment is in a class by itself. Once done it cannot be called back. It is not so much punishment in the true sense as vengeance. Capital punishment avenges one murder by committing another. It is a clean and final, but cowardly, way to remove a troublesome human being from society.

Some people must be removed from society. They are beyond reform, and are a danger as long as they remain at large. But do we have the right to kill them? If we took a vote on that question, I believe a majority of citizens would say "No."

In hopeless cases, why not give the courts the power to administer a true life sentence, without the chance of parole? Or if the crime is judged to be a once-in-a-lifetime act of passion, give the criminal 10 to 20 years to cool his passions and offer him liberty if he can prove his fitness to live in the world.

But if we must put men and women to death legally, let us feel sorrowful, rather than triumphant, for administering such a penalty. And let us call in modern science to give the victims a painless whiff, pill or needle in the arms, instead of strangling them and breaking their bones with the ancient rope.

Nudists Elect 'Royalty'

Members of Canada's only two chartered nudist clubs were elected king, queen, prince and princess of the nudist convention near Shawnigan Lake over the weekend.

Wolf, a member of Victoria's Sol Sante Club, was elected king and Monica, also a member, was elected princess. Ellen, a member of Vancouver's Van Tans Club, was chosen queen and a fellow club member, Billy, was elected as prince.

Les Jones, a member of the Sunny Trails Club, on the B.C. mainland, was elected president of the Western Division of the Canadian Sunbathing Association.

Four Years to Go

One of nine Canadian youths to complete first-year apprenticeship course of the federal government's five-year program for training marine engineers is Ward Stevens, 19, of Victoria, backed by Yarrows Ltd. The Toronto course is participated in by shipyard management across Canada, education departments and labor officials.

Around Town

New Plan May Ease Hold-Up

City council public works committee will consider at its next meeting a plan submitted yesterday for installation of traffic signals and islands at the Burnside-Douglas intersection.

A traffic actuated signal would permit northbound cars to turn in safety from Douglas onto Burnside, and a pedestrian-actuated signal would control a crossing on Douglas just north of the intersection.

No left turn from Burnside onto Douglas would be permitted, but a special channel in the islands would allow fire equipment from the Burnside station to cross Douglas and go north.

Residents of Oak Bay will be receiving shortly a red card containing fire and police telephone numbers, and space for a doctor's phone number.

Plagued by false alarms from persons calling the emergency number when they wanted only a fire permit or information, Oak Bay fire department's non-emergency number has been changed to 5-2297 from a number only one digit different to the emergency number, 3-3321.

Tenders for a new Memorial Arena floor will not be called until a design has been worked out by a Toronto firm of consulting engineers, City Manager C. C. Wyatt said yesterday.

"We feel that when the job is done this time it ought to be done right," Mr. Wyatt, a member of the arena commission, said.

The arena commissioners had decided to obtain the services of the Toronto firm, he said, because it was recognized as the "outstanding firm in Canada dealing with design of arena floors."

Hotels Lose Plea For Circle Signs

A sign at Fountain Circle points the way to motels on the old Island Highway, and city council public works committee received a request yesterday for similar signs pointing the way to half a dozen James Bay hotels and motels.

But public works committee took no action, noting that the Fountain Circle sign had been erected after the new Trans-Canada Highway had diverted tourists from the established accommodation on the old highway.

"It would be very difficult to put up signs for hotels," observed City Engineer James Garnett. "We would have to have them pointing in all directions."

Groans Come From Tomb

CAVENES, France (Reuters)—Roman Catholic pilgrims from all over France are clamoring daily to enter a sealed church here to witness a "miracle."

The diocesan bishop ordered the medieval church closed following reports that groans and wails had emanated from a tomb.

The tomb contains the body of Farther Augustin Taulelle, former parish priest of this village in southern France. He predicted on his death bed 80 years ago "three miracles will come to pass during the next century."

Villagers said the first miracle occurred a few months later when the priest's body was dug up for reburial in the church. They said flowers in his coffin were as fresh as on the day of his funeral.

During mass on May 15 this year, seven villagers said they heard a long drawn-out wail from the coffin, followed by a heavy groan. A few days later, groans and wails were reported heard again.

Thousands of pilgrims have since flocked to the church, only to find it closed.

Preparing for Friday Deadline

Island Operators Parry Strike Blow

IWA Decision Tough For Plywood Mills

Wood products mill operators and lumber retailers of the Victoria district went into action last night with preparations to close down with a minimum of waste when Friday morning's strike deadline arrives.

Sudden announcement of breakdown in negotiations came as a shock last night, but anticipation of the worst in recent months softened the blow for operators who had already geared production and inventories for a short-notice stoppage.

Some, but not considerable, damage is expected to be suffered as a result of logs left in water for any wood products for which processing can't be completed in time.

An operator of a sash and door factory and paning mill said that after his dry kilns are shut down there will be some products ruined because they won't have a chance to be seasoned.

Various "perishable" items involved in the manufacture of plywood are expected to be lost as well as some plywood itself when the doors at B.C. Forest Products' plywood mill close.

An official of the division explained that plywood, during the process of manufacture, dries and cracks if special temperature and humidity conditions are not maintained.

However, he added, materials used in the process, such as glue, have been held back on an immediate-need basis so that there would be no large quantity on hand to harden or spoil.

The official said it was a pity the strike had to come at this time of year, when plywood is in increasing demand.

"In this business, the market is terrible for four months and good for eight," he said. "We try to make the best of the good months."

A few logging operators admitted to rumors that some small contract logging operations would force closing of companies altogether if the strike is prolonged.

Many small sawmills in the area have been closed since late last winter because of "soft" market conditions.

Small logging operations have continued primarily on a contract basis. Some will be caught with booms stored along inlets around the southern part of Vancouver Island, but total footage is believed small.

As one of the operators put it: "We've had the hatches buttoned down for some time."

Some lumber retailers in the Victoria area will remain open after Friday while others close shop, depending on the union affiliation.

Those connected with the IWA will shut their doors, at strike deadline time, but a few employ members of the teamsters union, not involved in the tie-up. These outlets will continue to sell until supplies run out.

Retailers reported brisk sales in recent weeks as customers rushed to purchase in case the strike was called. Stockpiles in yards were considered well below normal.

Supply of logs in salt water at both the B.C. Forest Products and Moore-Whittington plants is expected to diminish before the deadline.

Those left in the water for any length of time will probably be ruined by toredos, or marine borers that riddle the costly timber with holes.

Aircraft Control

Students Start RCAF Training

Starting this week, 100 senior high school and first-year college students, including 30 girls, will report to 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, 865 Yates, for the second phase of training under the air force's reserve tradesmen's training plan.

Under the direction of Flt. Lt. Joe Jupp, chief instructor, who is a teacher at Milnes Landing High School, Sooke, and assisted by FO Ken Cutler and FO E. of Commerce to the smartest Goudy, the RTTP personnel will train as fighter control operators during July and August.

They will receive lectures in such subjects as organization of an aircraft control and warning system, basic radar theory, radio telephony, meteorology and navigation.

For four Thursdays in August, the RTTP will perform the sunset ceremony on the lawn of the legislative buildings.

Last year they won the Tri-Services Challenge Shield presented by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to the smartest reserve unit in the city participating in the ceremonies.

B.C. to Spend $87,809,996

The provincial government will spend $87,809,996 in the next three months.

This sum, approved by the legislature earlier this year, was released for expenditure in the current quarter ending Sept. 30 by cabinet order yesterday.

The education department has an allocation of $20,469,981 while capital expenditure out of income will amount to $24,348,500.

Action Is the Proof

DISARMAMENT talks have been continuing at international level for most of the postwar period up to the present. The present discussions have the appearance of being more sincere than some of the earlier reviews of the question. A three-way remedy is being proposed; involving a cutback in manpower with the colors, storage of at least a percentage of existing field and other weapons, and a stay in nuclear tests by those three powers which have been making them. In each instance these would be observable decisions. If the will to take this action is present it could be done, and through mutual inspections made effective. Nor can there be any doubt that accord on this degree of disarmament would in fact relieve world tension.

The economic position of most nations lends support to the view that not only the few larger powers of the world but also smaller nations in their numbers would be glad of some prospect of relief in the onerous outlays of armed preparedness, were such a course justified by events. It was Soviet Russia's failure to disarm after the Second World War which led to the arms race. Technological advance and the new nuclear physics were superimposed to make the cost of such competition virtually astronomical. There is no little evidence now that even the largest powers are feeling the strain on their treasuries and acutely in their internal economies. That factor is certainly not the least of the causes lending more earnestness to the current discussions than has been in evidence in the past.

Since it is the world's peace which is involved, no unilateral half solutions are likely to be accepted. Disarmament, if it is to succeed, will need to be a fully co-operative step. Moreover, the only valid proof that nations, distrusting one another for ideological or other reasons, would care to accept would be proof through action. If that is so, then the move towards world disarmament on a gradual and inspected basis will come down to what the major powers can agree to do within sight of one another. Manpower totals are not easy to disguise. Tanks, ships and airplanes in "mothballs" can be easily counted. Nuclear tests can hardly be conducted anywhere without announcing themselves loudly.

In the end it is sincerity which will determine the outcome of the present negotiations. Observable steps could be taken to slow down the arms race on a gradual and give-and-take basis. If Soviet Russia will replace the past protestations of peace with definite action which could make that security attainable, the Western world would not lag in matching such a stand. As the nation which refused to disarm when hostilities in the world conflict ended, it is clearly up to Russia to show that her change of heart, if there has been one, is not feigned. Action is the only proof acceptable.

A Touch of Make-Believe

VARIOUS newspapers have commented with approval on the decision of Hon. G. R. Pearkes that his military title of major-general be dropped while he is holding the cabinet post of Minister of National Defence. This is in line with established precedent that the military affairs of the nation should be in civilian hands, and that it is as a civilian that the defence minister report to Parliament on the matters in his charge.

The principle that civilian authority is supreme in Canada is a sound one. Yet there is a touch of make-believe in a general having to drop his earned military title when he becomes a cabinet minister. This does not change the man; he is still a retired officer. It suggests rather a naive assumption that what one does not see or hear does not exist. Everyone knows that Hon. G. R. Pearkes has been a distinguished soldier, and the VC which will not be dropped from his cabinet nomenclature will bear continuing evidence of this. No doubt the emphasis is thrown on his civilian role by dropping his military rank, however, and if people must delude themselves slightly in this manner no harm is done.

In fact of course Hon. G. R. Pearkes does not come to his defence ministry post as a military man. He has been a civilian—presumably an army officer becomes a civilian when he retires from the army—for the past 12 years. In all of those years also he has been a member of Parliament, a role that removes any trace of militarism from his associations. Actually of course in his cabinet post at the ministry of defence it is an advantage that he has been a high-ranking officer; he brings to his responsibilities an informed and experienced mind on subjects that of necessity are of this genre. In his position as defence minister the country will benefit from his military knowledge, even if in concession to certain sensibilities he has to drop his title of major-general.

Wednesday Afternoon Trading

THE opening of Victoria retail stores catering to the tourist trade yesterday afternoon, by arrangement and without prejudice to the working conditions of personnel, was the first trial of a change which has been agreed upon for the current season. Both large and small stores co-operated in the departure, and from initial reports trading was brisk. That is borne out by the number of visitors who have been arriving in the city for the last few weeks and highlighted in the events of the present week.

To cite only one instance of the early summer tourist traffic through Victoria, some 7,000 adult visitors signed the guest book at the Provincial Museum of Natural History in the last three weeks. Since Monday of this week there have been 1,100 signatures recorded in the same place. That is exclusive of children, and of many visitors who did not go to this provincial building. So there seems little doubt that the summer season has well begun along the tourist routes on the Pacific.

If Wednesday trading on a co-operative basis proves to be a success it is probable that this easement will be made annually during the two months of the vacation period. Not only for visitors but also for residents the convenience is an obvious one; if its problems, and it has some, can be amicably settled. Yesterday the first test appeared to be welcomed by townsfolk and visitors alike. Finding stores open they shopped in numbers. Also, the nose-flatteners were gone—there were no frustrated individuals buzzing around store entrances in sight of something they wanted but unable to get in.

Interpreting the News

Gen. de Gaulle in the Wings

By BERNARD KAPLAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

PARIS — With the backing of many of the most illustrious French names in and out of politics, Gen. Charles de Gaulle is expected to make a new public bid for leadership with a plan to settle France's desperate Algerian problem.

De Gaulle, who manoeuvred effectively behind the scenes during the recent cabinet crisis, is due to issue a call for an immediate federal solution for Algeria.

If the appeal meets with strong favorable reaction, he is reported ready to follow through with a plan for an Algerian-French conference.

Such an appeal would constitute an almost complete reversal of the public stand de Gaulle has taken on Algeria up to now. While federal status would not give Algeria formal independence, it would mean the 1,000,000 European settlers would be placed in a position of permanent and distinct political inferiority to the Moslem majority and so, in a sense, sacrificed. There could be little recourse to Paris for them.

This possibility has been nearly as much of an anathema to the French right wing as outright independence. But de Gaulle, mystery man of French politics, has come to stand more and more removed from parties, even from the right wing group which still calls itself "Gaullist," while simultaneously increasing his personal prestige.

Though he has made no public statement on Algeria for many months, reports coming from the circle close to him have grown insistent that he is convinced the military and financial drain opened by the North African campaign must be stepped up swiftly if France's role in Europe—always something of an obsession with him—is to be retrieved. He is also said to fear the consequences of the present drift as far as the rest of French Africa is concerned.

"We may save Algeria but lose France," one French political commentator quotes him as warning his colleagues.

The ordinarily remote and cold figure was one of the most conspicuous backstage actors in the latest cabinet crisis. Though there was no chance of he himself being summoned to the premiership now or even being directly consulted by those trying to form a government, de Gaulle was so busy he had to decline an invitation to attend an unveiling in London of a memorial to the free French.

Whatever may be conjectured, Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, a wartime subordinat of de Gaulle's and a follower of his in the immediate postwar years, is pledged to nothing. His record as ex-Premier Guy Mollet's minister of defence in vigorously pushing the fight against the rebels and his reputation as a leading advocate of the Suez action commend him to the French right.

Bourges-Maunoury's past may mean little now he is premier—except to make it easier for him to extract concessions and support from the right wing than it was for Mollet who, though he worked long and hard at getting along with the right, had too much to live down from its point of view.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MUSIC, I was reading the other day, has no moral influence. So said a London professor, but I hope he is wrong.

At least some music uplifts you, just as some other music invites you to take a nap and some other tunes, so-called, impel you to turn off the radio. The first of these, anyway, is good for morale.

The professor had in mind German music when he expressed his opinion, doubtless thinking of German militarism. His point was that music can rouse the national spirit. That it can, although I trust this doesn't make it unmoral nevertheless.

Nationalism in music can be quite agreeable; as for instance "O Canada" when suitably played. Too often, unfortunately, it sounds depressing.

* * *

The quality of nationalism wasn't always uppermost. Time was when great musicians who lived on princely patronage would switch their allegiance from one prince to another. And without a qualm.

But why not? That would be their bread and butter, and even today people leave their home lands and adopt a new citizenship for the same compelling reason.

National anthems were often accidental. The professor starts with "God Save the King (or Queen)." This wasn't written as a national anthem but in origin was a song of loyalty. It took root as the institution of monarchy entered a new phase.

"The "Marseillaise," likewise, assumed a new guise as mood and usage dictated. Is wasn't a revolutionary song at all, but was written by a young royalist officer to pep up the army of the Rhine when other European countries began to intervene after the French Revolution.

Frenchmen of all colors joined hands to repel the foreigner, and sung at Marseilles under a new title, "La Marseillaise," the war-song became a national rallying cry.

The French Revolution, throwing up the Napoleonic era, unwittingly brought another well-known anthem to life. "The Star-Spangled Banner," which followed on the British bombardment in Chesapeake Bay during the war of 1912.

It was written by a patriotic young Baltimore lawyer and put to an already popular tune written by an Englishman!

* * *

The Napoleonic invasion of Austria, the professor recites, had already produced Haydn's "Emperor's Hymn," and shortly thereafter nationalism in song was in flower. Every nation had its tune.

Schubert's songs put Germans under a spell. Glinka took the music of the peasants into opera and founded Russian music. Chopin was the voice of Poland, and Verdi roused Italians in their struggle for freedom.

As an expression of national sentiment, then, "O Canada" has weighty precedent.

Our Canadian song, of course, wasn't composed in protest against an overlord, nor to rally citizens to the barricades. It is a song of thanksgiving for the providence of a great and glowing land, written by Sir Adolphe Routhier in 1880.

Music may have no moral influence but it certainly puts zip into morale. "O Canada," for instance, if absorbed in the proper spirit, tends to tingle the spine. And that, surely, is good for Canada and Canadians.

Reports from Ottawa

THREE U.S. Coast Guard cutters—Storis, Spar and Bramble—slipped their moorings at Seattle this week and headed up the British Columbia coast towards the Arctic. They are off to find a new Northwest Passage by sailing across the roof of the continent to New York City.

If they succeed, it will be largely because of the Arctic knowledge of the pilot they will take aboard at Nome, Alaska. He is Squadron Leader Scott E. Alexander of the RCAF.

This is the third successive summer that this airman of many gifts has acted as marine pilot for U.S. task forces in the Canadian Arctic. American officers marvel at the incongruity of it. Last summer, when Alexander piloted the Storis while the U.S. Navy vessels followed in line astern, Storis' skipper was highly amused.

"Look at us," he chortled as the force headed down Dolphin and Union Strait. "The Coast Guard leads the navy—and who leads the Coast Guard? Why, a blankety-blank airman—and a Canadian at that!"

* * *

At 44, Alexander is a big raw-boned man with a chin which juts prominently—a good clue to his forthright determination. This is not a characteristic which has endeared him to "the brass", as when he told an admiral that the admiral didn't know the first thing about navigation in the Arctic.

Alexander does—and a good deal more besides. He served in the RCMP's Arctic schooner St. Roch. He organized the RCAF's Arctic Survival School at Cambridge Bay, to teach airmen how to survive if they crash in the north. He helped invent the nylon pile fabric which substitutes for caribou skins in the manufacture of Arctic survival clothing, and which now has wide commercial use in ladies' synthetic fur coats.

For the last two years Alexander has been stationed in New York, on loan to the Americans so they could use his Arctic know-how in building the DEW radar line. In the summers the Coast Guard borrowed him as an Arctic pilot.

* * *

What this summer's expedition seeks is an escape route for radar line supply ships which might be trapped in the Arctic by ice or war. Ice could prevent ships from getting out through Bering Strait into the Pacific before the onslaught of winter. In war the danger of enemy aircraft and submarines in the North Pacific could be an equally effective cork.

What Alexander hopes will provide the escape route is Bellot Strait, a narrow natural canal in the central Arctic. Hitherto it has been considered too shallow for big ships, and the few larger vessels which have negotiated the Northwest Passage have travelled further north, where pack ice is likely to be too heavy for the three-eighths inch plate of cargo ships.

Alexander studied Bellot Strait from the air during the last two summers, and believes there is a deep-water channel through it. So Storis, Spar and Bramble have been detailed to make a hydrographic survey of the strait and adjacent waters, an area which is still as uncharted as when Sir Martin Frobisher first sought the Northwest Passage 350 years ago.

The silks and spices of Cathay which lured Frobisher on are not the goals of this expedition. But these modern explorers will have the satisfaction of proving—if they do—the feasibility of a dream four centuries old, and of making a significant contribution to knowledge of the Arctic which will be useful in peace and in war.

The Packsack

Just Out of Reach

By GREGORY CLARK

WHILE I am properly grateful to the Almighty for the obvious thought and imagination He put into the design of the human body, there are a couple of minor items that we might call to His attention at this particular season of the year.

During these hot spells, when we are soaping ourselves in the bathtub or shower, we notice that there is one spot a little south of our shoulder blades and just a trifle north of the small of the back which we can't quite reach with our hands. It is almost within reach. Indeed, sometimes we imagine we have actually reached it. But it eludes us. If our arms were just two, maybe three inches longer we could get at that spot with a feeling of satisfaction that the Almighty will of course appreciate.

On TV we see these double-jointed acrobats who can stick their heads down through their legs and stare up their backs. In fact, they can get their arms as well as their heads through and thus actually be able to watch themselves soaping their backs. Most of us see these acrobats contorting with a good deal of envy, though realizing of course that their particular design was doubtless an experimental design, and not included in the final blueprint. In the army, where we bathed together in hundreds in the nude, and we had a chance to observe all the variations and permutations that are possible within the specification of the approved design—the square built, the round built; the squat, the tall; the fat, the skinny—I saw in the two wars only one man who could really reach around and scrub his own back with complete satisfaction. The rest of us had to pair off, you scrub my back, I'll scrub yours. Thus, friendships were founded, upon true service to one another.

It may be the Almighty, in giving us this one tantalizing deficiency, had matrimony in mind, hinting to men and women that by getting together in domestic felicity, they could scrub each other's backs. As the years go by, however, the impulse to perform this kindly service wanes in us.

True, we have invented long-handled brushes that will reach the spot, yet they are somehow not enough. I always feel like Jack Benny playing the violin when I am attempting to employ one of these brushes. All in all, I think two or three inches added to the arms would be the source of much human satisfaction. And in the event that the atomic bombs do finish off the present human race of mankind, and the Almighty is faced with the job of repopulating the earth with a new and more satisfactory image of Himself, he might just add those inches and perhaps put another joint in between the elbow and the wrist. That would be perfection.

On the Record

Rights of Individuals

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE United States Supreme Court decisions have rung down the curtain on what has been called "the witch-hunting epoch." The words were never mine. Witches were illusions. Communists are real, and the existence of an international communist conspiracy is a fact.

But these decisions—releasing five known communists in California and demanding retrials for nine others; rehabilitating a State Department official discharged as a loyalty risk; and exonorating a labor leader who was fined and imprisoned for contempt of Congress because he refused to name former communist associates—indicate that the Supreme Court no longer regards communism as "a real and present danger" or internal threat to the security of the American government.

* * *

It is most unlikely that these decisions would have been given five years ago. The high court would hardly have so ruled during the Stalinist period and the Korean or Indo-Chinese wars. The Committee on Un-American Activities reached its zenith when America was genuinely afraid that communism might sweep the world and engulf the United States, and America was feverishly rebuilding its external and internal defences.

Then the security of the state took precedence over the rights of the individual as it always does in war. War, hot or cold, is the perennial enemy of personal freedoms and invariably reduces the area of what is considered to be tolerable.

These decisions are, therefore, an expression of restored confidence. They indicate that the highest court of the United States, and ultimate guardian of its constitution, believes that greater rights of individuals are no longer incompatible with the security of the state; that what were essentially war measures can be ameliorated; and that we can safely move back into the great American tradition.

* * *

That is what I meant by saying, in a previous column, that the decisions are not revolutionary but the opposite. They give one the comfortable feeling of coming back home, where there have always been cranks, radicals of every color, would-be overthrowers of the social order, ideologists who yearned to shatter the world to bits and then remake it nearer to the heart's desire—tolerated because we were sure they couldn't do it, and regarded by both the state and society not as dangerous menaces but as nuisances and crushing bores.

The decisions are reminiscent of Jefferson's first inaugural address, uttered at a time when America was suffering from the backwash of the French revolution whose original ideas had been drowned in bloody injustices, and whose leaders also were conspiring on an international scale, Jefferson himself being under suspicion. "Reactionaries" were packing their trunks in Washington preparing to flee the coming red terror when Jefferson delivered his immortal address, as limpid and confident as light.

* * *

I find an element of humor in the fact that Justice Tom Clark, formerly prosecuting attorney of President Truman ("communist charges are red herrings"), was the lone dissenter, and that the rehabilitated State Department official was fired as a loyalty risk by Truman's secretary of state, Dean Acheson, idol of the "liberals." Mr. Justice Harlan, who was strongly influential in forming the decisions, is thoroughly conservative.

But, again, the conservative mind has usually been the guardian of personal freedom against the excesses of "democratism" that can be so awfully tyrannous. Edmund Burke was a conservative, and the extent to which he is being revived in American universities is also cheering.

* * *

It's a beautiful day up here in Vermont. The heat wave has abated. The weather is sparkling and clear. The woodchucks have been gassed in the perennial beds or departed for other gardens. And the political weather is brighter, too.

Happy Fourth of July!

My father lived at Blenheim then,
Yon little stream hard by;
They burnt his dwelling to the ground,
And he was forced to fly;
So with his wife and child he fled
Nor had he where to rest his head.
With fire and sword the country round
Was wasted far and wide,
And many a childing mother then
And newborn baby died:
But things like that, you know, must be
At every famous victory.

Work of the Devil?

Queer how nations think that dropping Hell-bombs on each other will achieve world annihilation. Actually each nation need only drop these bombs as tests in their own country to produce precisely the same effect.

Scientists state these tests are harmless, but hurricanes, tornadoes, twisters, and tidal waves with masses of dead and millions in destruction will follow these continued man-made blasts that upset the delicate balance of nature.

[illegible] tion that is the work of the devil, and will mankind be warned in time?

Wonderful Day

On behalf of Old Age Pensioners No. 3 we want to thank all the officials, Coach Lines and boat service, who made the Anacortes trip a wonderful day for those up in years who have scant opportunity of attending outings of this sort.

Garbage Disposal

"Profit from waste" by T. H. Watson in the June 26 issue of the Colonist would be a wonderful idea for your beautiful city of Victoria, and apparently the Organic Corporation of America would put up the plant without any expense to the city.

Surely we do need a modern garbage disposal for now as well as for the future of a fast-growing city; it would be an asset to the community at large, and fill the need for a good fertilizer for our local Island farmers and gardeners as well as employment for our home folks.

Come on Victoria; let us go ahead and show other cities we are sick and tired of filthy beaches and antiquated garbage disposal, even if we do have to take a lesson from those good neighbors of ours to the south.

Surely there is no harm in investigating as has been pointed out by Mr. Watson, and there might be great gain too, in getting this American corporation to show us how it is done so we can profit by keeping our "City of Gardens" still more beautiful, with wellfed gardens and lovely clean beaches for our young folks to enjoy; a pride and a joy for the whole community.

Housing the Aged

A letter in your paper commenting on our proposed Housing Project for Senior Citizens, over the signature of L. F. Pepper, stated in part: "I cannot help wondering why "cheapness" seems to be the most important part of the proposition. In the plan the rooms are too small, beds hung in walls, kitchenettes just large enough to turn around in," and "It makes us wonder what we have done to deserve it all."

I have been instructed by our Society to correct some of the wrong impressions conveyed in this letter.

As for the "Cheapness" part I would like to point out that the only cheap thing about our project is the "Rent."

The reference to beds hung on walls and rooms just large enough to turn around in etc., is irresponsible, unjust, and untrue criticism. We prefer constructive criticism and would advise Mr. Pepper to inspect our plans at his earliest convenience in order to acquaint himself with some knowledge of the project. Everyone who has taken the trouble to familiarize themselves with our plans is quite satisfied.

I personally and some of our board have been working on the problem of "housing for the aged" for three years. They have met countless people, attended the same number of meetings, gathered great piles of data and inspected plans of housing currently in operation.

After all this honorary investigation we have arrived at what we consider to be the ideal accommodation for our senior citizens.

The various committees of our society are to be congratulated on their splendid efforts on behalf of the aged and also those other groups planning similar projects. The need is terrific and the job can be done, so let's do it.

G. E. WILLIAMS,
President, Senior Citizens' Housing Society, Victoria, B.C.

Soot on the Pot

In "Fun, Fact and Fiction" there was a comment which went:

"Krushchev thinks all our grandchildren will be socialists. He is smart to skip our children who, judging by the way they pursue their fees for grass-cutting, dishwashing and babysitting, are confirmed capitalists."

This prompts the inevitable question, how come the capitalist who owns several thousand shares of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. stock receives so much more in "fees" than the "capitalist" who digs ditches, saws logs or operates a lathe?

As far as Krushchev and his third generation "socialists" are concerned, his prediction may come generally true, who knows? But not the way he thinks.

They won't be the "socialists" who idolize Russian poor capitalism with its low living standards, slave labor camps, secret police and wars while condemning western rich capitalism with its ulcers, alcoholism, overcrowded mental instiutions . . . and wars.

To them the soot on the pot will look just as black as the soot on the kettle.

'Wolf Boy' Can't Talk, Eats, Acts Like Animal

Staring in amazement at the largest fly she's ever seen—and a good thing it's just a model—is young Sue Morgan from Tacoma, one of many visitors looking through the Provincial Museum these days. —(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Parsram, an eight-year-old crippled boy found living with a wolf pack about seven months ago, is India's latest wolf boy. He has been reunited with a peasant couple who claim to be his parents.

Although he has greatly improved in health since he was rescued from the wolves' den, he still cannot walk or talk, and behaves like an animal.

He likes raw meat and laps up water like a wolf, is unusually restive and bites anything within his reach.

Parsram was spotted by a party of Indian soldiers on a hunting trip in the jungles of Uttar Pradesh. The soldiers were surprised to find an emaciated, crippled boy loping down on all fours to the river bank from a nearby den.

They took the boy and put him in a Ferozabad hospital. He later was turned over to the police, who gave him to a childless Brahmin for adoption. But the Brahmin discovered to his dismay that the child ate only raw meat and "howled like a wolf day and night."

Then the child was restored to a peasant couple who claim to be his parents.

Parsram is not India's first wolf boy. There are two others living in India today who claim to have been reared by wolves.

Never-Ending Trek Through Museum

The provincial museum is once again proving to be one of the most widely visited tourist spots in Victoria.

A check of the visitors' book just inside the main entrance shows that 1,100 people from such places as Birmingham, England, Sydney, Australia, and Miami, Florida, have passed through the museum since Monday.

A new visitors' book, started June 8, already contains about 7,000 signatures.

Officials also point out that children form the largest group who visit the museum but they are not allowed to sign the book. Many other people do not sign either.

One of the most popular attractions in the museum is a glass case in which a hive of bees are making a honeycomb, getting in and out of the museum via a plastic tube leading out of a window.

Although the exhibits range from live rattlesnakes to stuffed fish and grizzly bears many others cannot be exhibited due to the lack of space.

Pre-Holiday Boomlet Hits Wall Street

NEW YORK (UP)—Wall Street celebrated its best gaining pre-[illegible] history.

Stocks rose $2 to $5 a share and held most of their gains.

And the gains hit the right stocks to send the industrial average to within touching distance of the year's high in the Dow-Jones calculation and to a new high in the Standard & Poor's index.

Demand centred on the oils, metals, steels, building issues, tires, utilities and drugs.

Special issues provided some sensations. The tires had some wider gainers. Aircrafts got a lift. Chrysler spurted to feature a firmer auto section.

The blue chips rolled up gains that helped carry the entire list up by nearly $2,000,000,000, making the gain for the past two sessions something around $3,500,000,000.

Widespread Gains

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market pushed ahead Wednesday amid moderate trading for its best general advance in three weeks.

International Pete was a 2⅝-point winner. Gains of between one and two points went to Algoma, Aluminium, Dominion Steel, McColl, Union Gas, Walker's and International Utilities. Losses were generally confined to a point or less.

Hudson Bay led senior base metals with a 1⅝-point gain. Ventures was up a point. Uraniums eased while other low-priced mines were mixed to lower.

Cabanga featured western oils, dropping 40 cents. Canadian Devonian lost 25 cents while Canada Southern Pete gained 25 cents and Devon Palmer added 15 cents.

Steels in Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges closed in a narrowly stronger tone Wednesday with industrial price increases ranging to more than a point.

Among steels, Algoma gained 1½ and Dominion Steel was up a point while Atlas firmed ½. Among newsprints, Powell River gained ⅛. In the refining groups, Canadian Oil moved up ⅝ and McColl advanced ⅛.

Among utilities, B.C. Power added ⅜.

Mines and oils held a slightly better margin. Canadian Husky firmed ⅞ while Central Del Rio was up ⅜. Triad and Canadian Atlantic each pushed up 20 cents while Chib Jaculet and Permo each firmed 10 cents. Continental, Northspan and Sullivan each dropped 10 cents.

Copper Stocks Weak

VANCOUVER — Trading was chiefly in the lower-priced stocks with no notable price changes.

Cowichan Copper was off 5 cents at 1.10, while Trojan dipped to 32 cents. Pacific Nickel was firm at 1.25 and Highland Bell closed at 1.73 after being 1.80. Sheep Creek was off 2 cents at 58 cents.

Peace River Petroleum was 1.75 after 1.85 while Charter dipped 20 cents at 3.70. Vanior was lower at 2.28.

Midwest Gas rose 10 cents to $4 and Woodwards was firm at $11½ in a steady industrial market.

Inflation Expected

LONDON (Reuters) — London stock markets opened the new account on a firm note with the main impetus provided by further talk of inflation.

Equity shares were in demand but fixed interest securities came under renewed selling pressure and extensive losses were seen in government securities.

Dominion and colonial stocks were depressed and foreign bonds were mainly lower.

Industrials were selectively firm. Among the leaders Unilever issues were firm. Investment buying gave a very firm look to the oil share market and gains were extensive.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Considerable activity in oats trading occurred with American interests making purchases in connection with inter-market operations with Chicago.

Hedging sales were liberal and prices moved in a narrow scale.

Barley trading featured a few export orders in connection with small sales to the United Kingdom.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Tuesday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Profit-taking and hedge selling pushed wheat futures downward more than two cents a bushel in some cases.

Corn and oats held fairly steady and showed little change.

Favorable weather, and indications of more of the same for the next few days, caused some of the wheat selling.

Canada Urged To Cut Price

LONDON (Reuters)—The Financial Times suggests that more flexibility in wheat prices would achieve an expansion of Canadian wheat shipments.

Commenting on Canada's wheat surplus problem, the authoritative London daily comments:

"As things are, the chances of an expansion of wheat shipments are slight.

"Yet, not only for the farmer but also for consumers and for producers in other countries, an expansion must be achieved if the burdensome world surplus, partly founded on artificially high prices, is to be lessened.

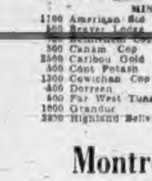
Production Cutbacks

Copper Prices Rally

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A sharp rally took place in copper prices on the London metal market yesterday with prices rising up to $7 a ton.



The upward turn after a long period of weakness in copper and other base metals, followed reports that the world's leading producers were planning cutbacks in production.

Cutback reports come from African, Chilean and Mexican producers.

Sympathetically higher were tin, lead and zinc prices.

MERGER PLANNED

Provided satisfactory tax rulings can be obtained, and agreement reached by the shareholders, Canadian Export Gas and Canadian Prospects plan to merge.

The provisional proposal is that each share of Canadian Export Gas will be transferred into 2⅓ shares of Canadian Prospects, and the name of the company changed to Canadian Export Gas and Oil Ltd.

W. L. Griffiths, who is chairman of both companies, will continue in that role in the merged company, while A. F. Beck, president and general manager of Export Gas, will retain those positions.

* * *

CLEARINGS LOWER

Victoria Clearing House handled less business in June, 1957, than it did in the corresponding month of 1956. The total of $43,212,613 was down from $45,925,167 a year ago.

* * *

PREMIUM CUTS PROFIT

Net profit of British Columbia Packers Ltd. in the year ending March 31, 1957, dropped to $577,679, from $1,470,853—lowest in any year since 1926, except in 1953.

The decrease of $893,174 occurred despite the fact that sales were the highest on record at $52,227,616, partly from the company's own production and partly from extended trading activities in other lines.

The canned salmon pack was smaller than usual, the whale catch was disappointing, and the winter herring operation was held up for six weeks on a price dispute.

Further the premium on the Canadian dollar is estimated to have cost the company $230,000 on its U.S. sales.

* * *

NOT FOR SALE

Pacific Petroleums, developing into one of Canada's largest independent oil and gas companies, is not for sale. George L. McMahon, president, told shareholders at the annual meeting in Calgary that the rumor a merger with another company was being contemplated was untrue.

"We have no intention of selling out to, or amalgamating with, any company," he said.

* * *

PROFIT MARGIN DIPS

Net earnings of Canadian Breweries for the three months ending April 30 were $1,472,135 (44 cents a share) compared with $1,512,634 (45 cents a share) in the corresponding period of 1956.

Sales increased to $56,731,563 from $50,634,737, while margin of profit to sales was 2.59 per cent this year against 2.99 per cent a year ago and 3.81 per cent two years ago.

* * *

BID FOR CONTROL

Pardee Amalgamated Mines is asking shareholders to approve purchase of a further block of Milliken Lake Uranium Mines Ltd., which would give 42.76 per cent of that company's stock.

Pardee proposed to buy 1,616,445 shares from Rio Tinto of Canada and 13,300 from Rio Northern Mines at a cost of 5,919,632 shares of Pardee.

Shareholders will be asked to authorize an increase in capitalization from 6,000,000 to 11,000,000 shares for this purpose.

* * *

BONDHOLDERS CONVERTED

B.C. Electric has called for Aug. 20 in Vancouver a meeting of all its first mortgage bondholders. They are to be asked to approve a change of the deed of trust which will allow the company to issue first mortgage bonds at a rate exceeding 5 per cent.

The meeting was originally called for June 28, but was postponed as some legal doubt existed whether the notice advertising the calling of the meeting was sufficient.

The company's action is being taken in view of the fact that corporation mortgages of this description are not readily saleable in the present tight money market at 5 per cent or lower.

In their last issue of debentures, B.C. Electric added a gimmick in the shape of B.C. Power common shares at a package price.

EARLY START HELPS

Canadian Atlantic will benefit by the earlier start indicated for Westcoast Transmission Company pipeline. The company will be one of the leading suppliers for the line, which is due to start operations in August, three months ahead of schedule.

The Perils Of Teenage Promiscuity

Adolescent boys seem to have a great need to prove their manhood — often by succeeding with the town child-harlot or an older woman.

In July Reader's Digest, Toronto's Dr. Marion Hilliard tells why promiscuity is sure to make a shambles of a boy's adult life . . . and how parents can help their son cope with this teenage danger. Triple Dead Heat for First at Hollywood Park

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The handicapper's dream, a triple dead heat for first place, occurred at Hollywood Park Wednesday in the fourth race when Joe's Pleasure, Challenger Tom and Leaful hit the wire at the same instant.

Wednesday's racing oddity occurred in a field of 12 horses.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Bob Fleming, now an unattached professional, made his comeback into the winners ring Monday when he took the Cowichan Open on a sudden death play-off with Bill McColl.

Both have now won the trophy two times.

For McColl the finish was ironic. The Colwood ace has probably the most dependable putting blade in the Pacific northwest, but after it had done valiant work throughout the day it failed him at the crucial moment.

Leading Fleming by one stroke with 35 holes played, McColl three putted from 25 feet on the home hole while Fleming, after taking three to reach the green, gobbled an 18-footer to tie.

Again at the 38th hole McColl putted short and then missed for six feet while Fleming sank one of five feet to take the title.

Laurie Carroll, the assistant professional at Victoria, also played well and with two rounds of 73 was in third place.

McColl's one under par scoring at Cowichan has brought him right back into the reckoning as a Willingdon Cup challenger. Of the Island prospects he and Laurie Kerr have the best medal competition averages this year, and the B.C. closed championship later this month at Vancouver will probably be a deciding factor in the chances of either or both.

Although Fleming as a professional is no longer eligible for the Willingdon Cup team, his return to winning form at Cowichan should act as a fillip to local golf. His role as local pace setter has been badly missed this year, and although he will now be eligible only for open events and the winter medals, it is hoped he will continue to take part in these events.

HORSE RACE AT COLWOOD. Forty-seven members of the Rainier Golf Club — the largest ever to come to Victoria — are taking part this weekend in the annual match with Royal Colwood.

The activities start Saturday afternoon with a golf horse-race starting about 4 p.m., in which the leading players of both clubs will take part.

This will be followed by a reception and buffet, and the first leg of the home-and-home match will be played Sunday.

The following weekend Royal Colwood plays host to the Port Angeles club — a new fixture for Colwood.

CHALLENGE FOR STICK. Cliff Horwood, the long-hitting young left hander of the Victoria Club, is the next challenger for the club's Walking Stick. He is due to meet holder Les Pope this weekend.

PHIL TAYLOR ON SICK LEAVE. His many friends will be sorry to hear that Phil Taylor, professional at Victoria Golf club for the past 35 years, is indisposed.

Phil is to be on sick leave for the next few months, and he will miss officiating at the Northwest Seniors competition for the first time.

BOLD PUTTING PAYS. A clubhouse friend of mine who is statistically minded tells me that with the average golfer over 65 per cent of all putts finish short of the hole.

He has been doing a bit of counting, mainly from the clubhouse window. Putts that dropped into the hole he counted as being among the 35 per cent of the putts that were up or past.

"Most good putters usually leave themselves not more than three feet from the hole after their approach putts, and some very good safe putters are often just a few inches short," he told me.

"But the really good putters are seldom short. They know that they can never sink the ball unless it gets as far as the hole and they don't mind over-running even three or four feet to give themselves a chance."

QUICK HOLE IN ONE. Some people wait a lifetime for this; but the hole in one came within three months for Ian Simpson. Playing over Cedar Hill on Sunday with Howard Stanley, Norman Harris and Hector Vogler, Simpson holed out in one at the 120-yard 14th hole. He used a No. 5 iron. Ian started playing golf last April.

LES POPE WINS TODD CUP. Winner of the Todd Cup at Victoria Golf club this year is Les Pope. He had a net 133 for the two medal rounds, and this gave him a two-stroke lead over Harry Newton and Charlie Wilson, the joint runners-up.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP. World's senior golf champion is Al Watrous, who took the unofficial title away from England's John Burton in a 36-hole match at Pollok, Glasgow, last week. Watrous, a former Ryder Cup player, won by 8 and 6 to take the title back to the United States.

GORGE VALE CHAMP. Mrs. Dorothy Naismith is the new ladies' champion at Gorge Vale. In the final against Mrs. S. Paterson she won by 4 and 2.

Even the camera couldn't separate the first three horses in the fourth race at Hollywood Park yesterday as North American racing recorded only its sixth triple dead heat for first place. Hitting the wire together are Joe's Pleasure, on the inside with George Taniguchi up; Leaful, in the middle with Bill Harmatz in the irons, and Challenger Tom, who was ridden by Willie Shoemaker. Hustling Pils Beaten As Rocks Regain Lead

Vancouver's hustling Pilseners, playing their second game in as many nights, went down to their seventh straight defeat at Memorial Arena last night, but they gave the Victoria Shamrocks a real battle before dropping an 11-9 decision.

Six points behind the third-place New Westminster Salmonbellies and struggling desperately for an Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff berth, the Phils proved a handful for the Rocks

	P	W	L	GF	GA	Pts

Last night's score: Vancouver 9 at VICTORIA 11.
Next game tonight: VICTORIA at New Westminster.

until early in the final quarter when the Victorians scored three unanswered goals in 73 seconds.

Shamrocks, who weren't in their best form last night, moved two points ahead of the Nanaimo Timbermen and they can take a four-point lead with a victory at New Westminster tonight. The Rocks will be bolstered by the addition of Bobby Bremer for tonight's important clash.

Until Jack Bionda's second goal of the night and two quick markers by the hustling Al Gill early in the final frame, the scrappy Pils looked as if they might take the points from the listless Shamrocks.

GILL BREAKS THROUGH

Bionda, held well in check by rugged Bill Barbour in the early going, scored on a power play at 4.03 to break a 7-7 deadlock. Gill, who has had trouble getting his share of goals this season, broke loose for a goal at 4.49 and made it 10-7 with his fourth marker of the game at 5.16.

That was all for the tiring Pilseners, who managed to outscore the Shamrocks by the odd goal in the final five minutes. But the Mainland club had a number of good chances in the last 15 minutes and it was only the fine goal keeping of Geordie Johnston which saved the day.

Pilseners held the Rocks to a 2-2 deadlock at the end of the first period and were ahead three times in finishing on the long end of a 5-4 half-time score. Shamrocks rapped in three third-period markers on their odd-man play for a 7-5 lead before lanky Fred Usselman scored his fourth goal at 14 minutes to leave Pils one behind at the three-quarter mark.

PENALTIES HURT

Penalties proved costly for the Pils. Vancouver picked up eight minor penalties and the Shamrocks scored six times while Pils were a man short, Pee Wee Bradshaw collecting five assists on the Rock's power play. On each scoring play, it took the Rocks less than a minute to score the goal from the time the Vancouver player stepped into the penalty box.

Gill's scoring spree, the hustling play of Don Sherry and Bob Dobbie, who scored two goals apiece, and Bradshaw's work on the power play proved the Shamrock high points.

For the Pilseners, Dave Unwin turned in a solid performance in goal. Usselman provided the punch on attack and Barbour was a stand out on both offence and defence.

Yanks Gain as Berra Splurges; Reds Boost Lead, Cards Second

If any further proof was needed that the New York Yankees are on their way to another American League pennant it was furnished yesterday by Yogi Berra.

In a slump since early season, the veteran catcher has been showing signs lately with clutch hits that he was about ready to snap out of it. He tore loose yesterday with a flourish as the Yankees extended their lead to three games by blanking Boston Red Sox, 10-0.

Berra, hitting only .225 and credited with only 28 runs batted in, slammed out his 12th homer of the season and two singles to bat in no less than eight of the New York runs, seven in the first three innings.

He singled in two runs in the first inning, hit a three-run homer in the second and singled in two more teammates in the third. He connected twice after the Red Sox had walked Mickey Mantle to take a chance on Berra.

His last run batted in came on an outfield out in the eighth inning.

Making things even bleaker for the other clubs was the three-hit pitching of Bob Turley, who struck out 11 and looked every bit the pitcher everyone thought he was going to be a couple of seasons back.

The Yanks have now won seven in a row and 18 of their last 21 in a streak which has featured exceptional pitching above all else.

Chicago White Sox ran into an old teammate on one of his better days and were blanked, 5-0, on five hits. Ancient Virgil Trucks lasted until the sixth, when he tired and had to be replaced by Tom Morgan.

It was the seventh win for Trucks, who has been used mainly in relief roles since being acquired by Kansas City.

Don Mossi, a one-time relief specialist, got a third American League shutout, pitching Cleveland Indians to a 6-0 win over Detroit Tigers.

Not long ago considered a pennant threat, the slipping Tigers are now only a half game ahead of the sixth-place Baltimore Orioles, who knocked off Washington Senators, 8-3, to continue their steady gain.

Only two games were played in the National League, but they were important.

Cincinnati Reds increased their lead to a full game and dropped Milwaukee to third place by outscoring the Braves, 7-5. St. Louis Cardinals moved into the runner-up spot, by sneaking past Chicago Cubs, 5-4.

Lew Burdette, who had beaten the Reds nine straight times since 1955, couldn't make it 10 although given 2-0 and 3-2 leads. He was sent packing in a four-run sixth inning, which was featured by pitcher Hal Jeffcoat's two-run triple.

Hoad, Cooper Gain Wimbledon Finals; High-Ranking Ortega Upset by Baker

Defending champion Lew Hoad, toying with his opponent, and Australian champion Ashley Cooper set up an all-Aussie final for the second straight year in the Wimbledon tennis championships Wednesday with impressive victories on the historic centre court.

Hoad, who defeated countryman Ken Rosewall for the title last year, scored as he pleased against big Sven Davidson of Sweden in grinding out a 6-4, 6-4, 7-5 triumph. The hard-hitting Hoad is favored to become the first player to win the title two straight years since Don Budge of the United States turned the trick in 1937-38.

The twenty-year-old Cooper, seeded second, continued his mastery over Neale Fraser as he beat the left-handed Aussie for the fifth straight time, 1-6, 14-12, 6-3, 8-6. Fraser, however, put up a strong showing and although beaten, he wasn't outclassed.

The men's semi-final matches received an unenthusiastic response from the wilting gallery, largely because the robot-like Aussies inject little personality into their play. Hundreds of fans quit the stadium during the Fraser-Cooper match because it was tea-time.

Three women's doubles teams entered the semi-finals yesterday. Miss Yolanda Ramirez and Miss Rosa Maria Reyes of Mexico, Mrs. Mary Hawton and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, and the American team of Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard all won quarter-final matches.

Early Response Encouraging In Drive to Keep Pro Hockey

Judging from the early response to raise $50,000 to finance a community-owned club, Victorians don't want to be left without professional hockey.

Although no tabulation has yet been made of the amount of money raised so far by the sale of $25 shares, members of the share sales committee, who are making sales by personal contact, have been encouraged by the kind of support they have been getting from hockey fans.

Among the many who are doing what they can to assure that Victoria retains its franchise in the Western Hockey League are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rayer, who helped get the drive away to a good start by purchasing a share for each member of their family — one each for themselves and one each for Louise and Murray.

FIRST SHARE

Joe North, who has always had the co-operation of the hockey club in seasons past in his effort to provide recreation for old-age pensioners, got the drive away by purchasing the first share.

Colin Kilburn, who is acting as general manager and secretary-treasurer of the campaign, was highly elated at the early response from fans.

"We want this to be a real community-owned club," he said, "and the more shareholders we have the better. It's the support of the fan that will put this thing over."

Kilburn, operating out of temporary office at Arthur H. Cox Ltd., 817 Fort Street, has two busy committees working on the drive.

In addition to the share sales committee organized last week he has a women's committee headed by Mrs. Eileen Bassett. Members of the committee include Mrs. Clara Lowman, Mrs. Angela Reid, Mrs. Ev Wallis, Miss Laura Foster, Mrs. Hilda Corbett and Miss Roberta Whitteker.

The ladies' committee, which will help out with secretarial work as needed, is also busy on share sales and members are making telephone contact with all season ticket holders of past seasons.

A golf tournament and what Kilburn calls a "Beezebawl Night" have been planned to help publicize the drive as well as to add to the number of shares.

The "Beezebawl Night" is planned at Royal Athletic Park on July 12 and is guaranteed to provide something novel in the way of baseball entertainment in a game between Farmer's Construction, leaders of the Northern Division of the Northwest Semi-Pro Baseball League, and another club.

The other club will be built around a nucleus of hockey players who reside in Victoria—Doug Anderson, Bruce Carmichael, Kilburn, Ed Dorohoy, Larry Leach and Jack Bionda. They will be augmented (?) by the addition of press and radio men who are still able to jog for 90 feet.

All proceeds from the game will be used to buy shares, which will be distributed that night to attending fans as door prizes.

Plans are still incomplete for the golf tournament, which will be in charge of Bill Court, pro at the Colwood Golf and Country Club and one of the district's more-ardent hockey fans.

The drive will continue until the necessary amount has been raised or until August 31. In the event that the drive should fail, fans who have purchased shares will receive every cent of their money back.

TO THE VICTORIA HOCKEY CLUB COMMITTEE

I wish to subscribe for ...... shares at twenty-five dollars ($25.00) each in the new proposed Victoria Hockey Club Company.

King Fisherman Entries Pour In at Record Rate

Victoria Angler Takes Coho Lead

[illegible] participant sport on Vancouver Island should spend a couple of days handling the entries which have been pouring in for The Daily Colonist's King Fisherman Contest.

Yesterday's mail literally deluged the sports office as results of fishing over the holiday weekend arrived. No count could be made last night but there were at least 400 additional entries, bringing the total entry for the contest to date to almost 2,000.

By comparison, the total entry for the King Fisherman Contest on July 17 last year was 753 fish. Total entry at the end of the 1956 contest was just short of 5,200 fish.

Stonewall Jackson, one of the many who find all the angling sport they need in Oak Bay waters, took the lead in the coho division of the contest, weighing in a nine-pounder at the Oak Bay Boathouse. He made his catch off Chatham Island on a Swiftsure plug.

However, it was mainly spring salmon in the Victoria area while anglers sampling Up-Island waters were finding enough coho to indicate again that this may be an exceptionally good year for the silvers.

Scots Conquer St. Andrews To Share British Open Lead

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland—Eric Brown, one-time Scottish railway fireman who called St. Andrews' hallowed Old Course a "dirt-track," scored 10 threes in a brilliant 67 Wednesday to tie Laurie Ayton for the lead in the British Open golf championship.

The day was graced for Scotland and the enthusiastic gallery of about 4,000 cheered the two Scots on throughout their rounds. The 32-year-old Brown is professional at Buchanan Castle on the high road of the banks of Loch Lomond.

Ayton, a 240-pound 43-year-old native of St. Andrews who once spent several years as a golf pro at Evanston, Ill., is one of the most successful and busiest teaching pros in the British Isles.

AUSSIE CLOSE

Ranked behind the two leaders was Bruce Crampton, handsome young Australian Open champion, who scored a 68—five strokes better than his countryman, three-time winner and defending champion Peter Thomson.

Bracketed at 69 were Bobby Locke, rotund South African, who has also won the British Open three times, and an English trio of Jimmy Hitchcock, K. A. Macdonald and Norman Sutton.

The Old Course of St. Andrews, sometimes described as a 6,936-yard monster, took a severe beating Wednesday. Ayton and Brown equalled its long-standing record, previously held by Dai Rees and David Bullock and tied Tuesday by South Africa's Harold Henning.

A total of 22 players managed to beat its par of 36-36—72 on Wednesday.

Robin Galloway of Scotland fired a 70—the finest round of amateur golf at St. Andrews since Bobby Jones had a 68 over the Old Course in winning the 1927 British Open title. Tied at 70 were Oswaldo de Vicenzo of Colombia and Norman Drew of England.

The 71s were Gary Player, South Africa; Antonio Cerda, Argentina; Sebastian Miguel, Spain; Flory von Donck, Belgium, and Britain's Ian Smith, R. A. Knight, Peter Alliss, Bernard Hunt, David Thomas, Eric Lester, R. L. Moffitt and John Canton.

Brown's outgoing nine in 30 was among the greatest nines ever made at St. Andrews and he made it with a putter he bought five minutes before Monday's qualifying round.

CARY DAWDLES

Leading the four-man American contingent was Cary Middlecoff, who came home in a lusty wind with a par 72 after three hours and 18 minutes playing time, a time which blew up a controversy with four players who were behind him.

They shouted, waved their clubs and trooped into the Royal and Ancient club house to protest the "slow play."

An official complaint over the "slow play of Middlecoff" was entered Tuesday but the Royal and Ancient sided with the American by announcing he had played in "reasonable time and no action was called for."

Mexicans Defeat Canadian Cup XI

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico swept its World Cup soccer elimination series with Canada Wednesday night by defeating the visitors 2-0 before 75,000 fans in chill Olympic Stadium.

Mexico, which won the opening game Sunday 3-0, was leading at half-time Wednesday by 2-0.

Mexico now meets the winner of the Central America zone elimination matches for the right to go to the world finals in Sweden next year.

The Mexican 11 completely dominated the first half Wednesday night with better teamwork and superior speed.

FANS PROTEST

The stands roared with protest when the Canadians resorted to rough tactics after Mexico's inside right, Melkne Gutierrez, scored in 10 minutes with a hard corner shot.

Gutierrez also figured in the second score at 28 minutes.

The night was chill, following an afternoon rain which the Canadians had wanted to dampen the field and slow the speedier Mexicans.

The 1½-mile altitude seemed to bother the Canadians, unused to playing at such oxygen scarce heights.

The Canadians stiffened in the second half and held the Mexicans scoreless. The visitors kicked two goals, but both times the ball was not in play and they did not count.

Outstanding for the Canadians in the second period was goalie Pears, who stubbornly and, at times, brilliantly killed eight Mexican scoring attempts.

The crowd cheered Pears lustily.

First of the out-of-play goals came at 10 minutes of the second half when referee Walter Van Rosenberg called time out to silence the crowd. One of the Canadians rushed up to the ball and kicked it through Mexico's astonished goalie Antonio Carbajal.

Minutes before the game ended, Norman McLeod broke loose, scampered through the entire Mexican team, and scored. The officials ruled the ball was not in play at the time.

Keep Sweet Peas Moist

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The sweet peas have been glorious this year, and the first flush of blooms has been all that anyone could desire.

The problem from here on in, though, will be to keep up the performance of the vines, for there is a strong tendency for the sweet peas to go "off" rather badly with the …

Any extended period of drought will mean watering for those gardeners working on light, well-drained soil, for adequate moisture at the roots is essential for quality sweet peas.

Tired-looking foliage, short flower stems, or a droopy tip to the vine are all danger signals indicating need for water down below.

My method is to take out a little irrigation ditch about eight inches from the plant stems and trickle the hose into the furrow slowly until the sweet pea row has had about five gallons per running yard.

I do this on one side of the row only, going over to the other side for alternate waterings, as too much at one time can flood and chill the roots, causing an annoying spell of bud-dropping.

There is nothing a sweet pea vine likes better than a shower bath, particularly in the evening after a hot, …

If you screw up the nozzle on your hose until you get a fine misty spray, and wet down the vines, they show their appreciation almost immediately.

Even better than the hose, use your garden sprayer charged with clear water, plus a little household ammonia — about a tablespoonful per gallon. This has a wonderfully invigorating effect, and acts as a mild insecticide or deterrent as well.

If your vines are grown against a fence or wall, wet it down too, as well as any paths nearby, as all this creates the moist atmosphere that sweet peas love.

Grown against a wall, sweet peas often become infested with mites. These are tiny creatures, almost too small to be seen with the naked eye, but their sap-sucking activities can kill a plant just as surely as aphis or caterpillars.

Ordinary DDT insecticides are not much good against this pest—in fact, they encourage it by killing off the mite's natural insect enemies.

Malathion, used with a little soap in the water as a spreader, is effective against these tiny sap-suckers, but the spray must be directed upward against the undersides of the leaves, and the wall or fence should be given a thorough wetting down with the poison.

This isn't a pleasant job, as Malathion has a smell like a backed-up sewer!

Adoption 'Angels' — Supply Vital Need

Bulwark Against Fear

This is the sixth in a special eight-part series designed to show how B.C.'s adoption regulations are translated into human values.

By PETER BRUTON

The 1,800 children in foster homes include infants, small children, adolescents and young adults.

Among them are boys and girls with a wide range of needs and problems and their social worker represents the only bulwark they have against fear of the future.

One young girl expressed this when she recently wrote to Miss Ruby McKay, superintendent of child welfare, to acknowledge a graduation gift.

"I am the happiest person in the world to have my RN degree, and it has been possible only because my social worker helped me believe in myself and others," she wrote. "Just think, I was termed an 'incorrigible' eight years ago!"

To reach this goal with a child who does not have her own parents to confide in or turn to for comfort and guidance, a social worker assumes a heavy burden of responsibility.

Distance, weather, the demands and emergencies which crop up daily in other sections of the welfare service, all impinge upon and impede the worker trying to help a child "find her way."

The adult in want, the aged and the infirm must receive care and attention. For many, however, their needs in the main can be met through social services and the establishment of a regular and reasonable monthly income. Seldom are they alone with their problems in the same overwhelming sense as is the child.

For a youngster a change of worker, a difficulty in the replacement of staff, or even an unavoidable delay in a visit to a foster home may spell disaster.

As the population of B.C. increases so will the number of dependent children increase, making the task of the child welfare agencies still more difficult.

Miss McKay, in her annual report tabled at the last session of the legislature, had this to say:

"It would seem from the concern for children expressed by workers in the division and field alike that some modification in the present assigning and assessing of case loads is indicated. Good use could be made of new or expanded placement resources and, in particular, of some treatment facility for the sick and the disturbed child."

There has been no improvement in the situation.

The load on workers is just as heavy.

They have to spend long periods trying to find the right home for the child in question. For one little girl the child welfare division went as far afield as Montreal and, with the help of a social agency in that city, found parents of a similar racial origin who are now proud to call her "daughter."

From a financial standpoint thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money have been saved in this one adoption placement alone. No price can be placed, however, upon the savings in human values which resulted from the effort and joint planning of the several workers involved for a child, who, to them, had a right to parents of her own.

But the workers also spend many hours, days and weeks in helping youngsters that have been termed incorrigibles, or reuniting children who have been taken away from their parents for various reasons once the trouble has been settled.

Neither the social welfare branch nor probation staff are able to devote the working time required to do a truly rehabilitative job with the delinquent and young offender.

The Viewing World — By John Crosby

Bob Ends Seven-Year Hitch

The Robert Montgomery dramatic program ground to a halt after an extraordinarily long TV run of seven years, leaving those few of us who remember its beginnings with mixed emotions. Montgomery was one of the true TV pioneers and he did some fine things on TV, especially when he was doing some acting and directing.

In the early years, he brought in movie techniques which the very young industry sorely needed but which in recent years have seemed antiquated. (Lately, it is the movies which are borrowing heavily from TV technique rather than the other way around.)

Mr. Montgomery also, alas, brought in a great many of the Hollywood cliches of character and story and outlook which have made many of his productions so terribly predictable.

* * *

Montgomery's last show was called "Faust '57" and was a retelling in modern dress of the Faust legend. This was a remarkably interesting idea that went rather thoroughly to pot about midway through the script.

The ending was painfully ordinary and saccharine for so powerful a beginning, which is almost the story of the Montgomery program.

BRIDGE QUIZ

When partner's opening bid has been overcalled, your free bid has a more precise meaning than a bid made over an intervening pass. But the tactics dictated by strategy may be somewhat different from those indicated in a bridge book.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) Bid four diamonds. This is a pre-emptive bid, showing a weak defensive hand, denying support for partner's suit. It puts partner in a position to decide what to do if the opponents bid four spades, as appears likely from your hand.

(b) Five diamonds. The pre-emptive need is the same, but this time you are bidding because you expect to make your contract. You can't cue-bid spades, because that would promise support for hearts. No better bid is available to put partner in a position to make the correct final decision on this hand.

(c) Pass. This hand is not worth a free bid, especially when you have a singleton in partner's suit and three small cards in the opponents' suit.

(d) One no-trump. This bid has the virtues of being non-forcing; of showing stoppers in the opponents' suit; or telling partner that you hold about 10 points in high cards but no great support for his suit and no great length in the opponents' suit.

(d) One no-trump. This bid has the virtues of being non-forcing; of showing stoppers in the opponents' suit; or telling partner that you hold 10 points in high cards but no great support for his suit and no great length in the opponents'.

(e) Pass. Your three spade stoppers are not enough to warrant coming into the act with a free bid. You will be better able to gauge your action later by the further bids, if any, made by your left hand opponent and your partner.

(f) Two clubs. You are strong enough to jump to four hearts, but this will leave you up a tree as to your best action if the opponents bid four or five spades. Showing the club and later giving powerful support to partner's hearts will put the decision into the hand best able to make it—your partner's.

Martin Orders Partial Thawing Of B.C. Hospital Wage Freeze

Pay Increases Again Possible

A partial relaxation in the provincial government's hospital wage-freeze policy to allow pay increases for employees in some hospitals has been ordered by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Additional money has also been made available to cover the cost of improvements in essential hospital services, such as new X-ray machines and the like.

[illegible]

The latest change in policy does not mean that the 1957 wage increases being given by some hospitals which are above the 1956 average will be met, of [illegible] said.

[illegible]

FOR OTHERS

[illegible]

"If a hospital in the past paid lower than average salaries and employed higher than the average number of personnel that hospital must be prepared, if it increases the salary rates to the area average, to reduce staff accordingly or otherwise compensate for the excess cost over that of comparable hospitals," he said.

Extension of the limited parking area to discourage allday parking on the fringes of downtown Victoria will be recommended to city council by public works committee.

The recommendation will be that parking be limited to two hours in about 20 blocks where allday parking is now permitted.

Try American Dishes to Avoid Monotony

This being Independence Day let's salute our sisters of the skillet in the United States by featuring American recipes in our column today. At one time [illegible] years ago [illegible] And no matter whether I found myself in the [illegible] of New York City, the superb beauty of Washington D.C. or the quiet parts of Florida I gave [illegible] my hobby of collecting regional recipes. You know [illegible] amazing how many restaurant owners, famous chefs and others are genuinely pleased to give one recipe.

By that I mean a friendly [illegible]

In the case of fellow home makers, of course, a different technique usually does the trick. Try saying something like this . . . "Oh Mrs. So-and-So that was simply delicious. I've never tasted anything like it. Do you think I dare ask for the recipe?" If by chance she seems reluctant tell her you will willingly give her one of yours in exchange. It's foolish, perhaps, to say anything is typically American in these days of internationalism. But to my way of thinking the following recipes definitely [illegible] they can easily be reduced in quantity to suit your needs.

ROUND STEAK WITH ONIONS

[illegible] with flour. Heat the beef fat in a heavy skillet and add the onions. When they are lightly browned push them to one side and lay in the beefsteak. Fry to a deep brown, first on one [illegible]

Lay the meat on a hot platter [illegible] pour the [illegible] Arrange the lemon slices on top of the onions.

For some special occasion this next one is particularly delicious and comes from the [illegible]

VEAL IN SOUR CREAM

Two pounds veal steak, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 medium sized onion chopped finely, [illegible] mushrooms peeled [illegible] [illegible] damp cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cut it into 6 pieces. Saute in the hot fat with the onion and mushroom [illegible]

[illegible] over all. Serve with noodles.

And the following are two American ideas which you might well care to try in our [illegible]

Judge's Wife to Travel Marco Polo Trail

WASHINGTON — What has happened to the spirit of adventure in women? That is what the wife of adventure-seeking Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas wants to know.

[illegible] has been preparing for months for a journey with her husband over Marco Polo's trails in Central Asia.

Mrs. Douglas is not [illegible] appalled by the prospect [illegible] gets which may be [illegible] of the 1000-mile journey [illegible] What does appal her is that so few women want to make such a journey or [illegible] did have the opportunity.

"Only five women of the many I mentioned the trip to said they would like to go if they could," she said. "They all tell me it will be too hot, too dangerous or too some thing. Don't they have any feeling of adventure any more?"

Mercedes Douglas shares [illegible]

[illegible] gear, stuff belonging to a [illegible] Mrs. Mary Watson, of Rawalpindi, Mrs. Watson is waiting for them in Karachi, Pakistan. Here, we'll start from there [illegible] Mrs. Watson's son [illegible] and an interpreter. Gear will [illegible] camping equipment, food rations, cameras, clothes and auto spare parts. They will shop in local ports whenever they can.

Mrs. Douglas will be the "official" mechanic of the trip. When they first thought of taking the trip, Justice Douglas teased his wife by telling friends he was "taking her along just in case of motor trouble." As a result, she took an intensified course in mechanics this spring.

"We are taking very few clothes," she said the other day as she packed, pointing to the few dresses on the chaise. Most of them were size 12 cotton drip-dry dresses.

"I am not taking shorts or lots of slacks. Just one pair and some culottes," she said because women don't wear pants in Asia.

Mrs. Douglas' last [illegible] preparation for the journey [illegible] was made before [illegible] Genghis Khan, Marco Polo and Alexander differed very little from those of any young wife getting ready for a long stay at the shore.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Time is running out for people wishing free tickets to the two-hour "live" Almanac show in S. J. Willis Junior High School Monday. Send a postcard to TV Talk, The Daily Colonist, and the number of tickets [illegible] out late this week.

Doors will open at 5:30 and must close an hour later. First show will be done "live" from 7 to 7:30 the second will be filmed from 8 to 8:30 for presentation on channel 2 Tuesday. Program items will be a fashion show of bathing suits, All-Spoke Day highlights and a question and answer period with the Almanac regulars.

TV, which started as a "humble" servant of advertising is calling the tune, but industry is getting wise, says C. O. Hurly, vice-president in charge of sales for Chrysler of Canada.

He says: "In our eagerness to use him (TV) and his abundant talents we advertisers have babied, humored and spoiled him to the extent that he has become in some respects, a monster. Advertising should not be the crutch upon which a vast segment of the world of entertainment, culture and enlightenment should lean."

Some businessmen should take a cold, searching look at the somewhat lugherons spectacle they present, blind as a bat, being led down to the sea by keen-eyed, clean-limbed young fellows in Ivy-League suits. Mr. Hurly says the recent rash of cancellations offers some hope but "business simply cannot afford the luxury of advertising which does not deliver a fair return for services rendered."

★ ★ ★

TUESDAY'S REVIEW: Nat Cole's new Jubilee show, bolstered greatly by guest Frankie Laine, was a happy surprise and could be the summer's best. . . . Meet Mr. Graw, a new private-eye thing, had routine interest and impossible plot.

★ ★ ★

TV BITS: The new High Low quiz and both Climax shows should be good today, along with the movie "Arch of Triumph" . . . What price a song? Nat Cole will get $20,000 for singing the title song behind the credits of the movie "Raintree Country" . . . Eastman Kodak will replace Lincoln as an Ed Sullivan sponsor. The car firm felt the price of $185,000 a show compared to $110,000 three years ago, was too much . . . A musical version of "Rip Van Winkle" is being considered by NBC next season . . . Barbara Bel Geddes may star in a series about an American girl in Europe . . . Other proposed new shows are The Gaucho and Boys Have All the Fun.

Producer George Glass says he won't make a movie now of "The Comedian" (Mickey Rooney's TV hit about a nasty man) because "the S.O.B. market is over-stocked at the moment."

Mechanical Vendors . . . . . . Take in Billions

Marriage by Machine?

WHIPPANY, N.J. (AP)—Vending machine sales hit an estimated $2,000,000,000 in 1956. By 1960 experts estimated $5,000,000,000 in coins will clink down the steel gullets of millions of coin machines.

In the works are machines that will cook and serve a full course meal in 10 seconds.

Vending machines already can support a person from cradle to grave—providing his change holds out.

There are vending machines that give rubdowns, shoeshines, electric shaves, food and drink of all kinds, newspapers, music, insurance policies, laundry service, books, hosiery, perfume, records, railroad pictures and highway tolls.

A combination job takes the toll and a picture of your licence plate, just in case you try to slip through without paying.

Are you pale? A vending machine sells artificial sunlight. Think you have diabetes? Another machine dispenses a simple test to detect the disease.

There's even a machine in Germany that will arrange marriages.

For two Deutsch marks (43 cents) a man or woman gets a card complete with photograph and physical description of a member of the opposite sex interested in matrimony.

It all began in Athens in 219 BC. A high priest named Hero Ctesibus, weary of dispensing holy water by hand, developed a simple machine to do it automatically for a five-drachma coin.

A 16th-century machine in England sold candy, and a workable chewing gum machine appeared in New York City in 1882.

But not until 1927 when William H. Rowe banged together a cigaret-vending machine did the machines begin to hit the jackpot.

His early machines caught on and spread across the U.S. Other companies followed suit.

Slugs and other trick coins foolproof coin rejectors were bedevilled manufacturers until developed.

The future lies in new machines selling new products in revolutionary sales patterns, say industry spokesmen.

These include mechanized supermarkets run almost automatically, self-contained factory cafeterias and atomic-electronic restaurants.

Such restaurants would serve hot dinners of radiation-preserved food cooked by high frequency-radio waves within a few seconds—all at the drop of a coin.

Experiments in radiated food and electronic cooking may make this a reality by 1960. Already you can get hot dogs cooked this way.

City Building Figures Rise

Building in Victoria city increased slightly from last year's level in the first six months of 1957, but there was an 18-per-cent slump for the month of June.

Permits were issued in the first six months of this year for construction with a total value of $3,702,918, according to figures released at city hall. Last year's six-month total was $3,569,962.

This June, 592 permits were issued for construction valued at $521,593. In June of last year, 659 permits were issued for construction valued at $635,289.

State Puts Damper On Red Smokers

LONDON (Reuters)—By a state campaign against smoking, Russia is breeding a new race of healthy, cultured men within a socialist society, a doctor said in a broadcast over Moscow radio.

He said: "Smoking is one of those harmful and absurd survivals of the past. Everyone can stop smoking. It can be done as soon as one decides to do so—all that is needed is will power."

Mass Shelters Urged in U.S.

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UP)—Civil defence administrator Val Peterson has warned Congress that without access to mass shelters, 98 per cent of America's city dwellers might die in a surprise atomic attack.

Even with the best shelters possible, he said, 40 per cent of the city populace could be lost.

Peterson said in closed-door testimony that he has recommended to the White House a shelter-building program to cost $32,000,000,000.

He does not know what the White House will decide. But in any event, he said, he does not believe the shelter program should be oversold as an absolute answer to atomic attack.

"In a thermonuclear war there are no means of saving all of the people," Peterson warned. "It simply can't be done. We are going to lose millions of people if we have a war."

Peterson testified before a House appropriations subcommittee on Feb. 6, seeking an appropriation of $130,000,000 for civil defence in the fiscal year starting July 1. Previous civil defence requests have been heavily cut by Congress.

Other highlights of Peterson's testimony:

His agency wants to junk the "Conelrad" emergency broadcasting system for use in an enemy attack. Instead, it would like to "take over" all radio and television stations immediately on discovery that enemy planes are on the way.

The atomic bomb, however destructive, may not be the ultimate weapon. He finds no reason "to believe that mankind has reached the zenith of its destructive ability."

His agency will spend $100,000 next year studying "human reactions to disaster." This is "probably the most important item in the budget because nobody knows whether the American people will be willing to fight if someone starts dropping nuclear weapons on them . . . (or) whether you will have complete chaos, pandemonium . . ."

His experts believe only about 100,000 of the nation's 1,000,000 hospital beds would be left after an all-out enemy attack. Civil defence has emergency facilities for 400,000 beds and wants $12,500,000 to buy more.

'Super Colossal' Party

Todd-Sized Hangover Grips Gay Londoners

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—One of Europe's better mass hangovers gripped hundreds of Londoners today in the bleary wake of American showman Mike Todd's champagne-for-everybody party.

"Wow!" shouted Todd at 4 a.m. "I knew I forgot something. I forgot aspirin and headache powders."

As dawn broke over London, at least 500 guests were still enjoying themselves at Todd's large expense.

Aly Khan and his girl friend, French model Bettina, were riding pink and purple horses on the merry-go-round.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, the stern-faced attorney-general in the last Labor government, danced the rhumba to one of the 16 bands.

And so it went.

BLUE BLOODS LEAVE EARLY

Todd threw the party to celebrate the London premiere of his movie, Around the World in 80 Days. The Duchess of Kent and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, represented the Royal Family at the film but didn't stay for the party.

For the all-night binge Todd bought out the Battersea amusement park—where James McNeill Whistler used to paint things other than his mother—and hauled his guests across the Thames in a fleet of ferries.

"You never know," smirked the host, "something about the party and the picture might sneak into the papers."

Snoak was hardly the word.

"Wild and wonderful and brash and noisy," says the Daily Herald. "London has never seen anything like it."

"Mad, marvelous, gaudy, super-colossal, stupendous," the Daily Sketch gushes.

The host blew his top almost as many times as the corks blew out of the giant champagne bottles he had flown in from France.

NO WAITING FOR LIZ

The first explosion occurred when Mrs. Todd—film star Elizabeth Taylor—had to wait for some blue-blooded guests who were late.

"Hell," shouted Hubby, "she's having a baby this fall. What would you do if your wife was having a baby? Gangway!" and he rushed Liz to a seat.

Biting a white-gloved hand, the mother-to-be commented:

"He worries too much about this baby. I hope it's a girl. I am sure the world is not ready for another Mike Todd yet."

Yards of crimson chiffon trailed from her sun-bronzed shoulders to the floor. Her ruby and diamond earrings and necklace glittered.

"We've got to get back to America Thursday," Liz said. "I've got to see my doctor and find out when the baby's due. I feel it might happen tonight."

But it didn't.

Sail Across Atlantic, Fly Back, CPR Plan

A travel plan allowing trans-Atlantic travellers to go one way by sea and the other by air was announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday.

Canadians can take the Empress ships of the CPR from Montreal to Europe, for example, then return in a CPA plane, the announcement said. All arrangements can be made through one office.

Travellers also could fly from Amsterdam to Vancouver over the CPA "polar route," board the CPR "Canadian" for an across-Canada trip and take a Toronto-Montreal-Lisbon flight or a Montreal-Liverpool sailing. The plan could also be reversed.

The company said tourists wishing to travel at minimum cost could sail from Montreal, visit the U.K., France, Germany, Italy and Spain and fly from Lisbon, Portugal, on CPA's "sunshine route," back to Montreal.

Cemetery Ruling May Be Appealed

The Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Limited of Toronto is seeking leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against a ruling preventing them from constructing a modern, garden-type cemetery at Goldstream.

Permission to build the cemetery originally was granted by the Public Utilities Commission and the B.C. Cabinet. The ruling was reversed last May by the B.C. Appeal Court here.

Low Bid Wins Highway Job

A $1,597,335 contract for the construction of 12.80 miles of Trans-Canada Highway between Craigellachie and Twin Bridge in the Kamloops district has been awarded to L & M Logging Co., of Kamloops, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said yesterday.

In addition Ben Ginter Construction Ltd. submitted the low bid of $983,276 for construction of 7.66 miles of Northern Trans-Provincial Highway between Burns Lake and Tintagel.

It was the lowest of five tenders.

B.C. Lawyers' Convention Opens Today

Joint two-day convention of the Law Society of British Columbia and the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association opens here today.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson will be speaker at the Law Society's annual dinner tonight in the Empress.

Stuart Keate will speak on "The Press and the Courts" at the Bar Association luncheon Friday.

Panel discussions on many phases of law will be held at the society meeting and a new treasurer will be elected.

Election of officers will also be held at the association meeting and committee reports on several facets of law will be given.

Another 'Empress' Ordered

A new passenger liner will be constructed in England for Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd., N. R. Crump, CPR president, announced yesterday.

He said in Montreal contract negotiations have been entered into with Vickers-Armstrong Ltd. The ship would be larger than the recent additions to the CPR fleet, Empress of Britain and Empress of England, carrying 200 first-class and 875 tourist passengers.

She will be designed for the North Atlantic service in the summer season and for cruising in the winter. She is to be commissioned in the spring of 1961.

JACKIE GLEASON talks back!

Critics, columnists, even some of his "friends" have called Jackie Gleason a lonely, mixed-up man! Articles have been written about the fabulous comedian describing him as everything from a neurotic glutton to a libertine torn between religion and a satyr's appetite for blondes!

Now, in this exclusive Saturday Evening Post interview, Jackie speaks for himself—and when he opens up, he really lets the facts fall where they may!

Jackie reveals:

• the truth about his attitude toward women • why he is such a big tipper when he is drinking—and his reason for throwing money around as though it had no value • why he says comics are actually less neurotic than most people • his blunt opinion of television columnists—and his future TV plans.

Don't miss "I Call on Jackie Gleason" by Pete Martin.

The Man Who Trapped Dave Beck

Here, for the first time, is the story behind the downfall of union lord Dave Beck . . . and of the mild-mannered "wizard" who, almost singlehandedly, brought it about!

You'll see how Carmine Salvatore Bellino—chief accountant for the Select Senate Committee on labor-management racketeering—wove a trunkful of canceled checks, organization reports and bank records into a shocking fabric that brought Beck to the end of the "gravy" trail!

And you'll discover how this amazing mathematical "bloodhound" got the "goods" on many other famous financial finaglers!

Reeve Ash Opens New Sub-Station

The new George Tripp sub-station of B.C. Electric opened yesterday by Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich is designed to break down and supply four times the amount of current being presently used in the Saanich area.

"This should look after the requirements of the district for some years to come," said Tom Ingledow, BCE executive vice-president in charge of engineering.

For how long, nobody knows. Earlier Dr. H. L. Purdy, B.C. Electric executive vice-president, said Saanich was the fastest growing district in the company's distributional area.

Use of electricity in Saanich has grown seven times in the past 12 years, whereas the average growth has been just over 300 per cent in that period.

Built at a cost of $914,000, the Tripp sub-station is named after a pioneer employee who joined the company on Vancouver Island in 1898 to install the old Goldstream plant and later the Jordan River plant.

Situated off Borden Street in the Lake Hill district, the new sub-station is of the open type and will be automatically controlled from Bay Street.

The site was chosen after B.C. Electric had met with criticism from residents in the Shelbourne district, where the station was originally planned.

Pointing to the row of cedar trees which have been planted round three sides of the plant, Mr. Ingledow said he hoped the effect would be pleasing when they grew up.

In the first phase, two transformers are breaking down electricity from 132,000 volts to 12,000 volts. One transformer is hooked up to the Jordan River main line and the other to the mainland line that comes to Vancouver Island by the world's longest and biggest high voltage submarine cable.

At the opening ceremony two capacitor banks were put into operation. These will give Saanich customers an even stabilized supply of electricity.

Chairman of the proceedings was E. W. Arnott, BCE vice-president on Vancouver Island and later a reception was held at Royal Colwood Golf Club.
